

Make Inferences

When you make inferences, you form ideas about things that are not directly stated in the text. To make inferences:

- Look for a situation in the text in which the author gives clues but doesn't state exactly what is happening.
- Think about what you already know about the topic.
- Combine the text clues with your experiences and knowledge to make an inference.

What I Learned
From Reading

What I Already Know

My Inference

Copyright © Scholastic Teaching Resources. All rights reserved.